RESCUERS HAVING HARD WORK

AMERICANS KILLED.
Americans killed: Willis Warner and Albert Kerr, foremen; James Patterson, Joe Richardson, Fred Morgan, J. O. Evans, Gilbert Jones, Joe Tate, Aaron Phillips, John Cassay, Aaron Jerrell, Thomas Hubbard, Cebal Puckett, Charles Smothers.

Ziegler, Ill., Jan. 11.—Five additional bodies were recovered in the Ziegler mine, where the explosion took place. That makes 25 known dead and two missing. A spark from an electric motor exploded a pocket of gas. Joe Lettier heads the rescuers, seeking the missing men.

Du Quoin, Ill., Jan. 11.—A disastrous gas explosion in which 25 men lost their lives occurred early Sunday morning in Joseph Lettier's colliery at Ziegler. A spark from a trolley pole of an electric motor coming in contact with a pocket of gas is assigned as the cause of the explosion. Mr. Lettier personally conducted the first relief party into the mine to recover the dead bodies.

The lone survivor of the explosion was an Italian youth who was uninjured.

An expert who has been experimenting with gas in the mines, left Wednesday, confident that he has placed the mine in condition to be operated.

Were Cleaning Away Debris.
The men employed were engaged in clearing away the debris caused by the recent fire, and it was expected that operations would be resumed this week, after two months' suspension.

The bodies taken from the mine are badly burned, and identification is difficult. Twenty-six men entered the mine on the night shift, and the names of the victims were learned from the pay roll.

The mine has recently been on fire and the flames have been sealed off, confined to workings which were not in the vicinity of the present explosion.

Comforts Injured Ones.
Mrs. Lettier is at Ziegler and she was at the mouth of the mine with her husband, aiding in comforting the widows and orphans who crowded about the mine.

Coroner Dye held an inquest over the victims brought out and adjourned until tomorrow.

Mitchell Not After Job.
Chicago, Jan. 11.—President John Mitchell, of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, who has been mentioned as a possibility for the secretaryship of the treasury under President-elect Taft, ridiculed the idea. "It is simply absurd that such reports should persist," said Mr. Mitchell. "I have heard nothing of any consideration being given my name. There is no reason why I should be, and it would be impossible for me to accept, even if the position were offered me."

COQUELIN SERIOUSLY ILL.
France Alarmed for Safety of Its Greatest Actor.

Paris, Jan. 11.—Benoit Constant Coquelin, acknowledged to be France's greatest actor, has been suddenly stricken with agria pectoris, and his condition became alarming. He has been ill for several days, but his condition was not considered serious until this morning. He is 68 years old.

Fowler, Second street and Kentucky avenue, this morning, and after gulping down several schooners for the cold weather offered in payment a check for $7 on the bank of Joppa. The bartender was suspicious of the paper, and held the negro until arrested. He is in jail while the police are making an investigation of the suspicious check.

Sen. Tillman's Defense Consists of Abusing President Roosevelt and Admitting All Facts in Case

Declares He Had Right to Purchase Land in the West and President Grossly Insulted Senate by Publishing Facts.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Tillman in his speech to the senate emphatically denied Roosevelt's charges. He accused Roosevelt of personal malice and misrepresentation, falsification, cowardice, contempt of the senate and violation of the law in using the secret service. He intimated the secret service men stole his missing papers. He denied he had tried to deceive anyone or told falsehoods, and said he had a right to buy land. He said giving charges to press before the committee received them showed contempt of the senate. He insisted that Roosevelt had information last July and there was no need for haste. He questioned this delay. If Roosevelt's zeal was honest. He explained the Oregon land transactions in detail and admitted he tried to buy land and had the right to do so. He signed no papers and paid no money. He denied personal interest in seeking to expose alleged swindlers. He accused Roosevelt of protecting Harriman in holding two million acres of land, refusing to sell at any price.

The Investigations.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Senators Clark, of Wyoming, Dillingham and Kittredge and Culberson and Overman were appointed a committee to investigate whether Roosevelt had exceeded his authority in the Tennessee Coal company matter. Cannon named Olmstead, Carri, Young Brantley and Bowers as his committee to investigate expenditures for the secret service.

Carnegie received a telegram from Miss Stewart's sister that she was ill, and her physician would not permit her to leave New York until today. Miss Stewart left for New York before Christmas but her illness has prevented her from returning.

WALTERS DRAWS FIRST BLOOD IN TREASURY FIGHT

Judge William Reed Holds J. Dorian Ineligible to Succeed Himself.

Case Will be Appealed if no New Trial.

MANDAMUS CASE UP FRIDAY

The office of city treasurer was declared a fiscal one and controlled by the constitutional facts two successive terms this morning by Circuit Judge William Reed, when he delivered his opinion in the suit of Mr. George Walters to oust City Treasurer John J. Dorian. By reason of declaring the office a fiscal one, Judge Reed held that Colonel Dorian could not succeed himself as city treasurer and that Mr. Walters was elected legally last November. The decision will not affect the present condition as a motion for a new trial and reasons were filed this afternoon, and if overruled tomorrow by Judge Reed, an appeal will be taken. The appeal will suspend the decision of Judge Reed, and Treasurer Dorian will continue to collect taxes and city revenue until the court of appeals gives a decision.

In his opinion, Judge Reed stated that the decision meant a construction of section 160 of the Kentucky statutes, and that in rendering a decision, he must be guided solely by his own conception, as the court of appeals had never passed on the section.

Owing to the interest in the case many attorneys and spectators were present to hear the decision. Col. Dorian was represented by Attorneys Price & Ross, while Mr. Walters was represented by Attorney Hendrick & Corbett, and Wheeler, Hughes & Berry.

The Mandamus Case.
The mandamus suit of Attorney Dennis Mocoquet against Maurice McIntyre, city clerk, to compel him to issue an attorney's license on presentation of a treasurer's certificate from John J. Dorian will be heard Friday morning by Judge Reed. An effort was made to consolidate the two suits but later it was decided to try them separately.

Hains Case
Flushing, L. I., Jan. 11.—Both sides rested at noon today. Court adjourned until tomorrow when the arguments will begin. Justice Crane announced that the case must go to the jury Thursday noon. The defense got a hard blow in the last witness, Mrs. Harvey Rockwell. She testified that Mrs. Annis was on the float. She described when the shooting occurred.

J. D. Mocoquet Hurt
Attorney J. D. Mocoquet fell at his home, 1214 Jefferson street, this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock and fractured his right arm and fractured the elbow and wrist. Dr. J. Q. Taylor was called to reduce the fracture. Mr. Mocoquet was just starting to his office after dinner when he slipped on the icy pavement in his yard and fell, breaking his right arm. The fracture is not a bad one but will cause Mr. Mocoquet to carry his arm in a sling for several weeks.

TALK MAY DEFEAT APPLICANTS FOR CABINET PLACES

Washington, Jan. 11.—The decision of President-elect Taft to refrain from making public the names of the persons he has selected to be members of his cabinet, with the exception of Senator Knox and Frank H. Hitchcock, has had the effect of greatly inciting gossip. The only possibility of accurate information transpiring regarding the seven vacant cabinet positions lies in the proneness of the friends of some of the selected persons to discuss the matter. Yet, Senator Knox, who has been aiding the president-elect in this work of cabinet building, on his return from Augusta rather grimly hinted that any candidate who either personally or through his friends betrayed the confidence of the president-elect might find that, after all, he was not on the list when the final cabinet is announced, and that state-cabinet may have some effect in restraining cabinet talk by people who are really advised.

Rev. Carmichael Commits Suicide at House of Friend After Leaving Note Confessing Murder in Church

WINTRY WEATHER.

Paducah has experienced some weather before during the year that felt like winter, but this morning was the first that looked like winter. The March breeze and soft temperature of last evening gave way gradually during the night to a "norther" that brought ice and froze the ground solid. Then the snow fell, and the boys were on the streets with their sleds and skates. Many a mishap resulted from slippery shoes on icy sidewalks and everybody's cheeks were pink—and nose, too. The temperature fell from 61 to 16 degrees in 12 hours.

HORRIBLE SCENE WHEN MURDERERS ARE GUILLOTINED

Bethune, France, Jan. 11.—Abel and Auguste Polet, brothers, and Canut Vromant and Theophile Derou, convicted of 18 murders and a hundred robberies, were guillotined. An immense crowd witnessed it and cheered the execution. It was the first executions in France in three years. Failures violently opposed capital punishment, but could not prevent it. The men went to death jeering the crowd.

ANOTHER RESCUE FROM HIS HOME IN STRICKEN CITY

Rome, Jan. 11.—A butcher by the name of Bensajak was rescued in the ruins of his home at Messina after being buried fourteen days without food or water. Apparently he is recovering. The rescue caused the workers to continue the examination of ruins for others. American warships today began the distribution of supplies along the Messina straits. Quakes are still felt seriously hindering navigation.

Marshal Neel Busy

Elwood Neel, deputy United States marshal, returned last night from Cadiz, after serving papers on a witness. While in Princeton waiting for train connections Marshal Neel saw about 15 defendants in the Henry Bennett night rider suit, who were also defendants in the Hollowell suit. He left papers with them and already some of them have signed them and have returned the papers to him. Of the 132 defendants in the suit, Marshal Neel has served the papers on 67. Marshal Neel has been unable to secure service on the alleged leaders of the night riders, as it is said most of them have left the state.

Cows Roam Streets Again

In less than a week after a champion of the town cow appeared in the board of aldermen, the cows or their owners have acted on the good news. Yesterday Lycurgus Rice, the stock policeman, found four cows trampling the grass of lawns, and a mule and a horse roaming on the streets. Although only eleven days of January have passed Mr. Rice has put nine animals, found roaming on the streets, in the city pound. In addition to being stock policeman he makes arrests and serves as mounted policeman for hurry calls.

DISTRICT PENAL INSTITUTIONS TO BE INVESTIGATED

President Calls Attention of Congress to Them in Special Message.

Recites Conditions Existing in Washington Jails.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE

(United Press.)
Washington, Jan. 11.—In a vigorous message sent to congress today President Roosevelt declares the condition of the penal and reformatory institutions of the national capital to be about as bad as can be, and recommends immediate and generous legislation to correct the crying evils.

The message is based upon the report handed him by a commission, consisting of Judge Wendell P. Stafford, John Joy Edson and Robert V. La Dow, the appointment of which was recommended by congress, and which, after a thorough examination of the various institutions of the District of Columbia, made a tour of inspection of some of the principal cities of the country for the purpose of finding the most approved methods of caring for the wards of the public. The result of the commission's labors is the recommendation of a radical change in the system now in vogue, and includes the conversion of the present jail into a house of detention; the establishment of a reformatory and a work house, each upon a thousand acres farm, where the inmates can be employed in shops and upon agricultural work; and the adoption of a parole law and a probationary system.

The president comments upon the fact that the jail and work house now in use are frightfully overcrowded. "In most cases," he says, "two or three prisoners are confined in a single cell, not large enough for one," and, in regard to the fact that all the prisoners of the jail are maintained in idleness, he says, "They belong, moreover, to a class of prisoners that specially need and dread to be put to work."

Discussing the overcrowding of prisoners and the compulsory association of the innocent with the guilty, the commission says: "That men and women should be sent to these narrow and crowded cells, the innocent with the guilty, the first offenders with the hardened criminal, in one promiscuous assembly, to corrupt and be corrupted by each other, the lazy to be humored and fostered in their laziness, the industrious to be deprived of every form of employment, to be fed like beasts and maintained at the public charge, not only with no prospect of improvement in their condition but with the moral certainty that they will come out far worse than they went in, is a fact that has become a stench in the nostrils of the whole community and ought to be felt as a shame and disgrace to the whole nation whose representatives are responsible for its existence."

In spite of the progress made by civilization, the commission finds the general situation gloomy in the extreme. "The confession must be made that society is still in a state of siege," says the report. "If we doubt it we have only to notice the bars and bolts on every hand, the watchman, the policeman, everywhere. After four thousand years of social order of one sort or another, after two thousand years of Christianity, it is still the fact that those who have must maintain their possession by force of the threat of force. The mailed hand of government is over every house and shop and bank vault in the civilized world, and apparently it must be so for centuries to come. The criminal problem must be looked upon as practically permanent."

Anderson Case
Owensboro, Jan. 11. (Special.)—The defense demurred to Banker Anderson's indictments and was overruled. The selection of the jury proceeds.

Mr. T. M. Cardwell, deputy state fire marshal, arrived today from Louisville, and with Chief Wood will make a thorough investigation of the suspected incendiary fire. The dwelling was insured for $2,000.

PASSING OF THE OYSTER.

Increasing Demand and Decreasing Supply Presage Extinction.

The report of New Jersey's fish commissioner on the danger of the extinction of the native oyster in our neighboring commonwealth and the need of artificial propagation for that mollusk, calls attention again to the remarkable state of affairs in connection with the oyster fishery in this part of the country.

The demand for oysters appears to be constantly increasing, or, at any rate, appears to be increasing as rapidly as the population, and the propagation or growth of the oyster appears to be constantly and increasingly menaced by the indiscriminate capture of oysters, little as well as big. In the Chesapeake, another great oyster fishery, war is almost perpetual between the oyster gatherers who would not respect private fields artificially planted and the official conservators. To an extent, Jersey has seen the same war, or its beginnings.

As the oyster culture is a source of wealth, profit and sustenance to many persons, it would seem rational that they in particular and those who can contribute to the effort in general, and particularly the state governments concerned, co-operate to prevent its extinction. At present the appetite of mankind and the ambition of oyster gatherers threaten it seriously, or perhaps fatally.—Philadelphia Times.

REV. CARMICHAEL COMMITTS SUICIDE

Nothing Found to Throw Any Light on Motive.

Used Oil From Lamps in the Church to Hasten Burning of Body—Crime Carefully Planned.

HE IS NOT IN CHICAGO

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—Today's developments failed to throw any considerable light upon the Rattle Run church mystery. The motive for the killing of Gideon Browning, whose dismembered body was found in the church stove, is still lacking. Rev. J. H. Carmichael, the missing minister, was reported during last night and today, as being in Indiana and Wisconsin, but verified reports of the minister's whereabouts are still lacking. The report that Carmichael was carrying $8,000 insurance has proved incorrect. He had only $3,000 insurance, and it is said that part of this was fraternal insurance and void in the event of suicide.

Used Oil From Church Lamps. One of the interesting developments was the report that shortly before last Tuesday's murder, Carmichael ordered all the lamps of the church filled with oil. It had been customary to use only part of the lamps and those not used regularly had not been filled for a long time. In directing the filling of the lamps, the minister made it plain that none of them should be overlooked. It has developed since the murder, that the oil is low in many of the lamps. As the lights had not been used since the last filling, the theory has been advanced that the oil from the lamps was emptied into the stove to hasten the cremation of the body of Gideon Browning.

Careful Plans. An evidence of the minister's careful planning of the details lies in the evident fact that instead of tying his horse in the shed back of his own church, he left his rig in a shed back of the Lutheran church across the road. Here the horse would not be seen by any one passing.

The minister's footprints between the two churches were accurately traced by the means of a deformity of one foot.

Thorough Search in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Every nook and corner in which it was thought Rev. Carmichael might be hiding in Chicago was visited by the police without success. Lieutenant Baker, of Detroit, declared that the fugitive might still be here, but the Chicago police believe that Carmichael passed beyond here if he came this far.

Reported in Wisconsin.

Cedarburg, Wis., Jan. 11.—A man believed to be Rev. John H. Carmichael, of the Rattle Run, Mich., church murder mystery, spent Thursday night and Friday morning in Cedarburg. The stranger, who impressed the people here that he was suffering from insanity, left Friday on a north-bound electric car.

Search at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 11.—The expected arrest of a man answering the description of Rev. John Carmichael, did not materialize. The search is being continued.

No Clew in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—One clew was furnished from South Chicago and the police will search all lodging houses and hotels in the downtown district for Rev. Carmichael. The proprietor of a road house in South Chicago told the police that a man answering Carmichael's description entered the road house last Friday, and after being given car fare proceeded to Chicago.

Reported as Captured.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 11.—Word is received here that a demented man, answering in every way the description of Rev. Carmichael, was found wandering on the Canadian Pacific tracks, near Claremont, 25 miles east of here. He was locked up and authorities notified. The man who weighs over 200 pounds, wears a closely clipped brown beard, walks with a decided limp and his toes turn out. He is incoherent in his replies when questioned.

News of Theatres

"Fifty Miles From Boston."

George M. Cohan was 30 years of age the 4th of last July, and he is already the author and composer of no less than ten highly successful musical plays, as follows: "Run, Run, Run," "The Governor's Son," "The Honeymooners," "Little Johnny Jones," "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," "George Washington, Jr.," "The Talk of New York," "The Yankee Prince," "An American Idea" and "Fifty Miles From Boston."

The last named play, "Fifty Miles From Boston," is announced for presentation at The Kentucky on Tuesday night, the 12th, where it will be given with elaborate scenic costumes and electrical environments and will be interpreted by a cast of superlative excellence, assisted by a singing and dancing chorus.

"Fifty Miles From Boston" is a satisfactory evening's entertainment. In view of the fact that the plot of the play tells a coherent story through which two love affairs are successfully engineered, and throughout the entire piece there is introduced innumerable chorus and song numbers, all from the pen of Mr. George M. Cohan.

Florence Davis.

Those followers of things theatrical who keep posted on the merits of various offerings are picking the attraction scheduled for one of this month's attractions at The Kentucky as one of the best announced for the coming six weeks in amusements. Florence Davis and her company, which includes Elliott Dexter and other players of high standing, in "Under the Greenwood Tree," with the entire lavish production of scenery and costumes which contributed to the marked success of this comedy at the Lyric theater, London, and the Garrick theater, New York, last season.

The Lyman Twins.

A very funny story is told about the Lyman twin brothers, who appear here January 13 in "The Yankee Drummers." There has been many stories told about these brothers who look so much alike, but this is credited as being true. During their company's visit in Fargo, N. D., and while one of the twins was seated in the office of the hotel, a controversy came up between three or four traveling men and a Texas cattle man as to who could run the fastest, the Texan declaring he could outrun any one in the party for a new hat.

The twin to play a joke on the gentleman announced he would take the bet if they would arrange the race so each one started back to back and run around the block until they met then back again and finish at the hotel. It was at once agreed upon and the twin immediately went up stairs, stating that he would be ready in a few moments. He at once told his brother of the affair and who, after understanding the arrangements, left the hotel by a back door and stationed himself in the middle of the back block, the other coming out stood as per arrangements and the race started.

The Texan dashed around the corner and when half way around the block he found his adversary ahead of him. The traveling men were by that time on to the joke and howled with delight, at which the lanky gentleman shouted all out of breath, "I'll bet you two hats you can't do it again," and away they went. The Texan found the same one quietly smoking when he reached the back of the block and on returning to the starting point found him there also. He never said a word, but bought the hats and don't know now how he was beaten.

The Smart Set.

"The Smart Set," one of the best colored organizations on the circuit, is booked for an engagement at The Kentucky theater January 27. This year this company offers something out of the ordinary in an amusement way. It is a comedy drama wedded to sweet music of the infectious, jingling kind, and is called "The Black Politician."

"And another thing," said Mr. Sirius Barker, "why do they insist on representing Kris Kringle, or whoever he is, as riding around in a sleigh drawn by reindeer?"
"Because," answered his youngest boy, "old Kris has been on earth too long to take any chances with a cab driver."—Washington Star.

INVESTMENTS NOT IN GREAT DEMAND

Says Henry Clews in His Weekly Market Letter.

One Good Feature in Popularity of High Grade Bonds for Month.

MARKET OUTLOOK IN DOUBT.

New York, Jan. 11. (Special.)—The first week of the new year has in some respects been a disappointment. The investment demand for stocks usually experienced at this period has not thus far materialized, and at present its prospects for doing are somewhat remote. Prices for stocks are still very high notwithstanding the decline of the last few weeks, and it is fully recognized that much of the prosperity that is likely to come to us in 1909 has been already fully, if not over, discounted. All the arts of manipulation have been resorted to to carry prices to a still higher level but without success. Buyers for investment cannot be had at present figures, and there is but one conclusion remaining; that is the market for stocks must seek a lower level before renewed activity can be anticipated. This impression is steadily gaining ground, especially as the January investor is conspicuous by his absence, and the market is consequently left in a weakened and somewhat sensitive condition. A rather serious blow was delivered by the decision of the United States supreme court in regard to Consolidated Gas. As a result this stock broke 35 points, thus weakening the hands of those who have been the chief support of the market.

The local monetary outlook is entirely satisfactory, unless it be that rates may again become easy. Funds are now returning more freely from the interior and the banks have gained from treasury operation, the result being that both call and time money are showing a declining tendency. Indications point to easy rates for at least the next two or three months, for general business is comparatively quiet, and the uncertainty of tariff legislation is likely to put a check on commercial operations until definite action has been decided upon. There is little prospect that the tariff question will be settled during the present session of congress, it being well understood that President-elect Taft will call a special session for the purpose of considering the tariff after his inauguration. Should the tariff debate be continued unexpectedly long, it is quite possible that midsummer might arrive before uncertainty was relieved. This would of course prove a very undesirable and protracted period of delay, and it is hoped that it will be averted. Nevertheless, it is one of the contingencies that must be taken into consideration.

High Grade Bonds.
One of the best features of the situation is the excellent demand for high grade bonds; there have been numerous issues of these during the last few months, and approximately $100,000,000 were offered last week and are being rapidly absorbed by investors who show a very decided preference of bonds, probably because their principal would be safer than if invested in stocks at present figures. Thus far the bond market does not appear to have been over-impacted with such issues, but in view of the large sums already authorized and those which are known to be forthcoming it is a question whether or not the supply will not soon prove greater than the demand if the present rate of issue continues for any prolonged period. The necessities of our railroads, however, are imperative, and this is their sole means of successfully raising capital. Under existing conditions there is no doubt that there will be a large demand for all classes of securities from investors if these could be had at moderate concessions from present prices. Confidence is steadily rising, and as conditions have been made much sounder as a result of the panic there will be little difficulty in raising the necessary capital for desirable enterprises. The requirements to be met will be simply those of price and quality of securities.

While the gas decision of the supreme court was a shock to the market and displeasing to bull interests, it had a wholesome effect upon public opinion. The court in carefully avoiding any action that appeared to be fixing the price of gas, or even indicating what is a fair return upon the capital invested, showed a judicious regard of the fundamental rights of property. It also showed an equally careful regard for the public at large which gave the corporation the privileges. It announced the important principle that where monopoly existed "good will" was impossible, and took a position adverse to the payment of dividends upon over-capitalized franchises. Further, it was made plain that if the company should still prove unable to earn 6 per cent on a reasonable valuation by the use of good methods, then it may apply again to the courts for a rehearing. The spirit of justice to all interests and a strong vein of strong economies pervaded the whole decision, which carried vastly greater weight than usual because of its being absolutely unanimous. Many recent important cases such as Northern Securities case, the

A HINT.

How to wear your hair a la pompadour at thirty.
In the same style at fifty, but in another place.

Trans-Missouri case and others were decisions rendered on only a bare majority of the court; and the fact that this decision was unanimous in every respect will do much to restore confidence and respect for the law and those whose duty it is to interpret it. While for the time being it may affect the value of public utilities securities, which have been inflated by swollen monopoly profits, in the long run it will inevitably benefit investors in this class of securities inasmuch as it will not only place them upon a more legitimate basis, but will tend to pacify the strong hostility to public utility corporations which had its reasonable foundation in the over-capitalization of franchises and natural monopolies. Besides, anyone conversant with the gas business is fully aware of the fact that gas at 80 cents to the consumer in New York means a handsome profit to the producer, especially when the methods of production and distribution are in all respects up to date. Forced liquidation has had more to do with the fall in gas stock than any well founded expectation of reduced dividends; and the company will best show its wisdom by a ready compliance with the dictum of the highest court in the land; particularly as that decision happens to be conspicuously in line with public welfare and public demand.

Market Outlook.

The outlook for the market is still problematical. Speculative leaders have received a sharp blow, and their efforts to life the market have been further impeded by the refusal of investors to buy stocks and their pronounced preference for bonds. Much less of the $100,000,000 of January disbursements have come back into stocks than usual, chiefly because prices are too high. With the prospect of easy money for the next two months at least, the position of the bond market is further strengthened.

Now that the technical position of stocks has been so materially weakened, it looks as if little betterment could be expected until values had reached a lower level. Prices have shown some decline since the election and occasional rallies may be expected, but no marked advance seems likely until liquidation is more complete and a more attractive basis is reached for both the investment and speculative buyer. Stocks have altogether over-discounted the recovery of 1908, and they must return to a level more normal and more in keeping with the present conservative tone and moderate volume of general business.

NO INAUGURATION AT SPRINGFIELD

Joint Session of Illinois Legislature.

Agreement May Be Reached Between
Senate and House so Canvassing Session Can Be Had.

POLITICIANS ARE HOPEFUL.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—With a deadlock in the legislature, the upper branch fully organized to transact business and the lower house barred under the present interpretation of the law from proceeding in its regular routine, the possibilities for the coming week in Springfield are many.

Perfunctory sessions by both houses are called for this afternoon but the real business sessions will not convene until Tuesday when both houses will convene and the struggle for a joint session will recommence.

Coincident with the convening of the two branches of the legislature, Tuesday, there is scheduled a meeting of the Republican state central committee. It is believed by the administration's friends that the members of the central committee will make strong efforts to convince the Republican legislators, who supported Speaker Shurtliff, that the party organization is threatened unless they recede from their position.

Meanwhile talk of an agreement by which it would be possible to secure a joint session which would be confined to the canvass of votes continuing some politicians see the hope of reaching an understanding between the opposing factions, which would guarantee a recount program that would be satisfactory to the administration and also the friends of Adlai E. Stevenson.

Some of the more optimistic politicians see hope that the inauguration ceremonies, which would properly occur tomorrow, will take place this week, but a greater number see no chance for an inauguration for another week, if then.

Record-Herald Comments.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—The Record-Herald today says the combination at Springfield which elected Shurtliff proposes to canvass the vote of the November election Tuesday. It has proposed that Speaker Shurtliff proceed with the canvass irrespective of whether the senate is present. He will declare Deneen elected. The way then will be open for filing a contest.

SENSES OF REPTILES.

The corps of naturalists attached to the Zoological Park at Washington have recently concluded some interesting experiments to test the vision of certain animals.

It appears that the sight of reptiles is generally very good, being probably their most acute sense, but not so acute as popularly supposed, possessing a limited range, indeed, as compared with most animals.

Crocodiles cannot distinguish a man at distances exceeding ten times their length. Fish see for only short distances. The vision of most serpents is poor, the boa-constrictor, for example, being able to see no farther than one-third of its own length. Some snakes see no farther than one-eighth of their length. Frogs are better endowed with sight for they can distinguish objects clearly at a distance of twenty times their own length.

The hearing of nearly all reptiles is even worse than their vision. Most of them are quite deaf, especially boa-constrictors. The phrase

"deaf as an adder" represents the careful observation of our forefathers.—Harper's Weekly.

If the average man had to dishe probably would dispense with his

Those governors who were not defeated for re-election seem to be having trouble with their legislatures.

Legislatures were organized in opposition to Deneen, of Illinois; Pat-

Texas.

That Michigan pastor, who used a means, but if we were Owsley Stanley we would be on our guard. Joe

EFFICIENCY OF A DEMOCRACY.

Four more congressmen have surrendered their opinions, favoring a sea level canal at Panama, and come over to the lock and dam side. They have just returned from an investarchy.

England is the best of the monarchies; yet her American colonies were exploited in the interest of corporations in England, and India is kept in blighting ignorance today.

That Canada and Australia enjoy autonomy is due to the successful rebellion of the United States. England's attitude toward China is that of re-not Indians, control the product.

We are finding new powers and new forces at our command, because we first learned to govern ourselves.

We grasped them unwillingly, nay, even tremblingly; but the world must

and we must lead the way onward and upward.

TILLMAN'S PREDICAMENT.

We always thought Senator Tillman hated a Republican more than he hated corruption. The victims of his black malice have been such men as Roosevelt and McKinley. Today

he stands before the bar of the United States senate defending himself against charges of graft. He will have few friends. He has been without mercy in heaping vilification on others. If he has ever done anything else in the senate, we have not heard of it. In South Carolina he represents the domination of the Hill Bil-lies over the old Hampton regime.

His nephew murdered an editor who criticized him. His henchmen inaugurated the public dispensary, the most corrupt institution, perhaps,

that ever existed in the United States.

Senator Tillman is accused of asking a land agent in the west to locate homesteads for himself and every adult member of his family, without ever intending to become a bona fide homesteader. He introduced a resolution in congress to open the particular land mentioned in his correspondence at the time he was negotiating for a goodly slice of it, and when his name was published in the prospectus of a legitimate real estate company, he denounced the company

as a fraud and declared on the floor of the senate that he had never sought land in the west.

Senator Tillman has never accepted corporation money—so far as we have any knowledge—but the purity of his motives are certainly impeached by his conduct in regard to that western land, and the grossness of his nature is exhibited in the careless manner in which he handled the truth in his statement in the senate.

If this experience will soften the mean heart of the old Hill Billy and make him more tolerant of the human caprices and weaknesses of his fellowmen it will be well worth while; but the truncheon Tillman,

the personification of the senate's conscience, is a spoiled picture.

Chapter Twenty-six

AFTER his happy holiday the prince slept well and rose in a cheerful mood, still joyful of heart. He anticipated that the day would bring him a summons from his father. He had little doubt that in the course of a personal interview he could persuade the king to agree to a postponement of his journey.

Of Sophy he meant to say nothing—by a reservation necessary and not inexcusable. It was impossible not to take into account the knowledge he had acquired of the state of the king's health.

The result of that condition was that his provision must in all likelihood be for months only and not for years. The task for the months was to avoid disturbance of the king's mind so long as this course was consistent with the malice of his own favorable position. It must be remembered that no man in the kingdom built more on this latter object than the king himself. No man was less a partisan of Countess Ellen-burg and of young Alexis than the husband of the one and the father of the other. The royal line—the line which boasted Bourbon blood—was for the king the only line of Stefanovitch.

Of the attack prepared against him

the prince knew nothing—nothing even of the king's mind having been turned against the Baroness Dobrava, whom so short a time ago he had delighted to honor; nothing, of course, of Star-nitz's audacious coup nor of the secret plan which Stenovic and the colonel had made and of which Mistitch was to be the instrument. Of all the salient features of the situation, then, he was ignorant, and his ignorance was shared by those about his person. On the other hand, Stenovic had his finger on every thread save one—the Lepage-Zerkovitch thread. If it may so be called. That was important, but its importance might be nullified if Mistitch made good speed.

On the whole, the odds were much in favor of the coterie. If by any means they could prevent the king from coming alive and free to Slavina the game would be theirs. If he did come alive and free, their game would probably be up. His presence would mean a hard fight or a surrender, and Slavina had no stomach for such a fight, though it could be plausibly thankful to be rid of Serious, whether as prince or king, without the necessity of an ordeal so severe.

As a preliminary to the summons he anticipated, and to a possible stay of some days with his father at Slavina, the prince had details to discuss and routine business to transact with Luko-vitch, the captain of his battery in Vol-seul. He was early on horseback. So-phy and Max von Hollbrandt (Max's stay at the castle was to end the next day) rode with him as far as the gates of the city. There they left him and turned down into the plain to enjoy a caterer on the banks of Lake Taiti. The three were to meet again for the midday meal at Praslok. Marie Zerkov-itch had been ailing and kept her bed leaped from his horse. "I must see the prince," he cried, "and immediately!"

"The prince is at Volseul, sir. He rode over to see Captain Lukovitch."

"When will he be back?"

"We don't expect him till 12 o'clock."

Zerkovitch snatched out his watch.

"There's nobody here but Mme. Zer-kovitch, sir. She's still in bed, not very well, sir."

"Twelve o'clock!" muttered Zerkov-itch, paying no heed to the news about his wife.

"The baroness and Baron von Holl-brandt are out riding!"

"Can you give me a fresh horse? I must ride on and find the prince at Vol-seul."

"Oh, yes, sir!" He signed to the groom. "And hurry up!" he added.

"The guard's here of course?"

"No, sir; they've gone with the prince."

Zerkovitch twisted his head irritably

Brilliant Affair With Paducah Guests of Honor.

The Thomasville Times, of Thomasville, Ga., in an elaborate social notice of an entertainment given in honor of a coterie of charming Paducah and former Paducah girls, says in part:

"The afternoon tea given Friday by Mrs. J. F. Mitchell, of this city, to Mrs. J. S. Montgomery, Jr., Miss Winstead, of Paducah, Miss Roberts, of Jackson, Tenn., and Miss Asher, of Atlanta, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the winter season. The guests were invited from three thirty to five thirty and about a hundred called during that appointed time. The reception room and the hall were decorated with gorgeous wreaths and branches of holly, the vivid red berries massing against the green of palms and evergreen foliage with beautiful effect. Mrs. Mitchell was becomingly dressed in a beautiful gown of white net over white satin with yellow diaphanous sash. Mrs. J. S. Montgomery, Jr., wore her wedding dress, a beautiful creation of white satin, made empire and elaborately trimmed in pearl beads. Miss Winstead was wearing a yellow satin messaline gown made empire and beautifully trimmed with diaphanous trimmings in jeweled bands. Miss Mary Louise Roberts was becomingly gowned in yellow satin messaline made empire and trimmed in beautiful lace and silk fringe. Miss Asher wore a gown of lavender chiffon cloth trimmed in messaline bands and made princess. The punch room, to the right of the entrance was beautiful in a profusion of exquisite. Duchess roses banked along the mantle and on tables in different parts of the room. The dining room to the rear was also very beautiful, the table being exquisite in its appointments of silver and cut glass. In the center was a beautiful tall cut glass electrolier, around which were strung beautiful bunches of holly. During the afternoon a splendid orchestra behind a bank of palms and ferns played soft music. The affair was one of the most elaborate and elegant of the whole year."

—Somebody lost a half hog this morning, but there are plenty of people willing to take the meat, while the police are trying to locate the owner. Patrolman E. H. Morris was walking down South Third street this morning when he was surprised to find a half hog.

She asks that her maiden name, Carrie Rinehart, be restored.

Eley Corder filed suit for divorce from her husband, Lee Corder, and asked that her maiden name, Eley Gibson, be restored. The couple were married September 30, 1907 and separated January 4, 1909. Habitual drunkenness, and the wasting of the estate is the ground for divorce.

"There's a Reason."

DISPROVES THE RUMOR.

King Manuel Proves He Is Not Ill With Lung Trouble.

Lisbon (Via Badajoz, Spain), Jan. 11.—In order to dissipate the rumors current here that his recent illness had entailed lung trouble, King Manuel, attired in the uniform of a field marshal yesterday rode through the principal streets of the city, followed by a brilliant staff.

It was noted generally that the king was very pale and that he sat on his horse with difficulty. Afterwards his majesty went aboard the royal yacht Amelia. His physicians are insisting that the king make frequent cruises, in the hope that the sea air will strengthen his constitutional weakness.

It is said that the duke of Oporto, the king's uncle and heir apparent to the Portuguese throne, has declared that in the event of Manuel's death, nothing could induce him to assume the crown. In such a circumstance, as there is no other descendant of the royal family in direct line of succession, the monarchical form of government in Portugal would be seriously jeopardized.

STOP CODDLING CHILDREN.

Dr. Isaac Abt Says We Are Forming Race of Neurasthenics.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—"Stop coddling your children, cease children's dancing parties and evening entertainments, or develop a race of neurasthenics," is the advice of Dr. Isaac Abt to mothers.

The children's dancing party, in the words of Dr. Abt, is a menace to the nation.

"It is making out of the young of America a race of neurasthenics," he said.

"Children in these days," the doctor continued, "are expected to participate in social life and family gatherings, to perform to recite, to sing and to be admired for their precocity. And this is fatal to their nerves."

Another menace to the nerves of the young of America is seen by Dr. Abt in the exaggerated attentions of the mothers of this country to their children.

"They pay too much heed to the children's little ills and turn their attention on them until they become introspective, inoculating themselves with ills they never need have."

ADMITS HER ENGAGEMENT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Jeannette Deere-Chapman, defendant in the $150,000 breach of promise suit by Dr. Kirk Stanley, of New York, is at present living at the Hotel Green in Pasadena, with her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Woodcock. When seen by a representative of the Hearst News Service she declined to be interviewed, but gave out a statement through her daughter to the effect that she had been engaged to Dr. Stanley, but that he did not appear at the time set for the wedding.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Eleven colored children, of whom one died, are said to have become violently sick as a result of the administration of diphtheria anti-toxin by a city physician. The physician contends that the dead child also had pneumonia and this may have caused its death, but the health department today ordered a rigid investigation.

Church Falls on Worshippers.—Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—During divine service an ancient church near St. Gall, collapsed, burying the worshippers in the ruins. Practically all the members of the congregation were killed or injured. A wild panic followed, those who escaped rushing through the fields shouting than an earthquake had overtaken the village. Other villagers joined in the outcry and were with difficulty calmed. After hours of exertion the fire company of the place extricated 40 corpses, but it is believed that there are still a number under the timbers. Sixty persons were badly injured. The collapse of the church was caused by time worn pillars in the underground crypt giving way.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for widowhood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

Ask your neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures. If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHY WE NEED GLASSES.

"There are hundreds of people needing glasses to see their way around this life who don't know it," said an observing man. "Every time you see a person with red-rimmed eyes, or wrinkles around his eyes, you can put it down that the eyes are overtaxed. It is not a case of race degeneracy at all, as some people try to make out. Of course, people of the good old times had better eyesight than we have, I'll grant you that, but the only reason they had is that times were different. The perfection of the art of printing, which makes newspapers and other reading matter possible is the prime reason for the failure of the naked eye to keep up with the times. Just consider how much reading we do as a nation. Experts have figured it out that there are nearly 25,000 publications in this country, to say nothing of the hundreds of thousands of bound books. Is it any wonder, then, that our eyesight fails us these days, when we think of the tasks we set our eyes to doing?"—Philadelphia Record.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine. 25c at all druggists.

"If Turkey really goes to war," said Frayed Fagin, "can't we beat our way over there and den come back an' pose as war heroes?" "No Turkey for mine," replied Gritty George. "I wouldn't go over there for a fortune. Somebody might give us a Turkish bath."—Boston Post.

Nervous Prostration

"I suffered so with Nervous Prostration that I thought there was no use trying to get well. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nerve, and although skeptical at first, I soon found myself recovering, and am to-day well." MRS. D. I. JONES, 5800 Broadway, Cleveland, O.

Much sickness is of nervous origin. It's the nerves that make the heart force the blood through the veins, the lungs take in oxygen, the stomach digest food, the liver secrete bile and the kidneys filter the blood. If any of these organs are weak, it is the fault of the nerves through which they get their strength. Dr. Miles' Nerve is a specific for the nerves. It soothes the irritation and assists in the generation of nerve force. Therefore you can hardly miss it if you take Dr. Miles' Nerve when sick. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

Makes Strong Healthy Children

A child needs nutritious food; not rich, heavy food, but something that the delicate little stomach can easily digest. Such a child can only thrive and grow when given proper food values in the right proportion. For building up delicate children there is nothing quite so good.

Jexall's COD LIVER OIL EMULSION

which is both a food and a medicine. It is a scientific emulsion of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, pleasant to take and children love it. Its body-building qualities are wonderful. If you have children who are "not strong"—especially those at school—do not fail to try this splendid remedy. If "run down" yourself it will make you feel like a new person within a week. Try it! OMENS OF EVIL FOR EUROPE'S RULERS

Czar Postponed His Visit to England.

Wales Likes Thirteen and Emperor William Has a Pet Superstition Concerning His Ring.

ONE DUKE HAS A LUCKY RING

The Tsar has not come to Britain, after all, though arrangements had been made for his reception at Balmoral. The reason for the postponement would be amusing if it were not for the pathetic light it throws upon his majesty's character.

He is very religious and very superstitious, and always amalgamates the two qualities in the most surprising way. The principal preparation for his journey to England was a solemn religious service. This was attended by the Tsar and Tsarina and their children, and the members of the court, besides officers of the vessels which were to escort them to our island. While the service was proceeding the entire company looked eagerly for some "sign."

To the delight of everybody, there was suddenly a break in the clouds, and, for the first time for two weeks of perpetual rain, the sunshine streamed down. The gold crucifix held aloft in the priest's hand flashed in the sun. The Tsar was visibly affected by this happy omen; but immediately afterward the clouds drew together again, the rain recommenced, and at night the sky was lit up by a strange radiance.

Omens of Evil.

The entire court was plunged in gloom, for these were omens of evil. The British visit was abandoned.

For some years past there has been a series of magicians and spiritualists and prophets in attendance on the Tsar. A little while back it was "Philippe," a notorious "doctor" of Lyons, whom the ruler of all the Russias delighted to honor, and in whom he placed implicit confidence. So great was his faith, indeed, that he tried to induce the French government to make his favorite a doctor of the University of France, and their refusal caused much astonishment at the Russian court.

Now it is the "Holy Mitja," a spiritualist from the Crimea, who enjoys the imperial favor.

King Peter of Serbia is another superstitious monarch; he refuses to begin or carry on any important business on a Friday, or on the 13th of the month.

On the other hand, the prince and princess of Wales are rather partial to the number 13, and the princess is especially fond of the number 3.

Edward's Fateful Day.

Tuesday appears to be King Edward's fateful day. On Tuesdays he was born, baptized and married; on a Tuesday he succeeded to the throne; on the Tuesday that preceded the day selected for his coronation he underwent his last serious operation.

The Kaiser is always careful that when a birth takes place in his family the ancestral cradle of the Hohenzollerns shall be used. This celebrated cradle is over 100 years old, and is supposed to protect the baby from all sorts of childish ailments.

Another of the emperor's pet superstitions is connected with a ring that he always wears.

It is said that one night, away far back, an enormous toad appeared in the room of Elector John, of Brandenburg, laid a small stone on his bed, and disappeared.

The stone, otherwise valueless, has always been regarded with special veneration by the Hohenzollerns. Frederick the Great's father had it mounted in a ring, and since then it has always been worn by the head of the family.

There are two rooms in the royal palace at Rome that were never used. They are the two rooms that were mostly used by two dead kings, one by King Humbert, and the other by his father. It is believed in Italy that some terrible misfortune would befall the reigning sovereign if the room of a dead king is interfered with before at least two generations have passed.

A Strange Superstition.

One of the rooms at Windsor castle has a strange superstition attaching to it. When Prince Albert was seized with his fatal illness, a bedroom was hurriedly ordered to be prepared. When he was carried into it the prince exclaimed: "This is where George IV and William IV died!"

And the prince himself died there. Years ago a young Russian lieutenant was presented with a ring by the late Leo XIII. The pope told him not to part with it on any account, as it would bring him luck and keep him out of danger. Some time passed, and the lieutenant became aide-de-camp to the Grand Duke Cyril during the Russo-Japanese war.

Forgetful of the pope's warning, he presented the ring to the grand duke, telling him how he got it. Almost immediately afterward came the terrible disaster to the warship on which they were serving.

The lieutenant was killed, and the grand duke attributes his own escape solely to the possession of the lucky ring.—Pearson's Weekly.

What a friendly old world this would be if we all loved our neighbors as we love ourselves!

WELL KNOWN ACTRESS

Gives Recipe for a Home-Made Quinine Hair Tonic.

Mabel Graham, now with Maxwell & Bell's "Gir From Dixie" company, has a head of hair that causes her to be envied by every woman in the audience. In the great scene in the second act, where she is rescued from the burning building, her head rests on the shoulder of her rescuer while her hair reaches below his waist. Her hair is a wonderful brown and so long and abundant that it always brings forth a chorus of "Ohs!" "Ahs!" and "Isn't she lovely?"

When asked by a reporter for the secret of her beautiful hair Miss Graham, ripplingly laughed, and answered: "The secret? There's no secret about it. I use only a common quinine hair tonic to keep my scalp and hair in perfect condition."

"Not a hair tonic?" asked the reporter, mentioning one of the best known brands on the market. "I should say not," replied Miss Graham. "I make my own hair tonic and then I know there is quinine in it—and then, too, it costs me only one-third as much. I get an ounce of Beta Quinol at the drug store and then mix it with half a pint of water and half a pint of alcohol. I simply shake these well together and then I have more than a pint of good quinine hair tonic. It keeps the hair soft and fluffy; promotes its growth and—well you can see for yourself what it does"—and she shook her beautiful tresses. Perhaps other women could use Miss Graham's recipe with profit.

Home Stomach Cure.

Go to your druggist and get one ounce of Compound Tincture of Cinchona, one ounce of Prosecco Champagne and half a pint of sherry wine; mix these together and take a teaspoonful before meals and at bedtime in a little water. This simple mixture will stop belching of gas, heartburn and relieve indigestion in a few minutes.

Why Weddings Are Few in Boston.

Boston, the accredited seat of culture and baked beans in this country, is experiencing a slump in marriages. There have been nearly a thousand less applications for marriage licenses in "the Hub" so far this year than there were during the corresponding period of last year. The reasons for this condition of affairs that have been assigned are timidity on the part of the young men and a paucity of finances among them. Probably the "timidity" reason is the best one. And young men may well be pardoned for being timid of hooking up with girls, whose table talk consists of dissertation on Sanskrit tomes and other equally obtuse things.—Topeka Journal.

Seven Years of Proof.

"I have had seven years of proof that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best medicine to take for coughs and colds and for every diseased condition of throat, chest or lungs," says W. V. Henry, of Panama, Mo. The world has had thirty-eight years of proof that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds, la grippe, asthma, hay fever, bronchitis, hemorrhage of the lungs, and the early stages of consumption. Its timely use always prevents the development of pneumonia. Sold under guarantee at all druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

His First Race.

The Bogard (Mo.) Dispatch says that a teacher out in Carroll county was asking questions of the class in history.

"Can any of you children tell me, who the first president was?" she asked.

"George Washington!" shouted a bright boy on the right.

"Very well," said the teacher. "Now, who knows whether Washington had anyone running against him?"

They all thought it over a bit, and another youngster finally volunteered:

"Yes, ma'am, he did."

"Who was it?"

"Bryan."

An Able Advocate

(Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.)

This is the true story of how Professor Driesbach got his wife.

Professor Herman Driesbach, botanist, seeking specimens in Arizona, rode up to a tavern, hitched his horse to a post, went into the house and called for something to eat. To say that the professor was engrossed in his profession to the exclusion of all else is to convey but a faint idea of his enthrallment.

But the moment had come when another kind of flora crossed Professor Driesbach's path to turn his mind temporarily in a new channel. While he was sitting at table eating his dinner and thinking on the latest varieties of plants he had picked up a girl in a short skirt, cowhide boots, buckskin leggings and sembrero entered the room and, depositing a rifle in a corner, sat down at the table opposite the man of science.

"Mornin', stranger," she said. "Don't know who you are, but I'm Kate McClennon, ranchman's daughter. Who are you?"

"Professor Herman Driesbach of university, at your service." Now, the professor was thirty-two years of age and, although he wore spectacles, had a pair of mild blue eyes behind them, with which he looked at Kate McClennon. If Kate was a revelation to the professor the professor was a revelation to Kate, whose gentlemen admirers had thus far been made up of cowboys, gamblers and such like rude material. The acquaintance develops more rapidly than crocus in springtime. After the meal both arose. The girl took her rifle, and they went out to where the professor had hitched his horse. Learning that the girl was going his way, he offered her a seat in his rattletap buggy, which she accepted, and they took their departure in company.

They had not gone a mile when there was a clatter of horses' hoofs behind, a shot over their heads, and before the young woman could get her rifle in position for defense a man rode up, crying:

"Halt, you horse thief!" Now, that the professor was a horse thief was proved by his own statement. When asked the color of his horse he frankly avowed that he was black, while the hue of the nag he was driving was white.

It didn't take the people thereabouts long to collect a jury of twelve good and true men to try the professor. There were no lawyers in those parts, but Professor Driesbach was assigned counsel in the person of a cowpuncher who had spent three months in a town lawyer's office. The professor was permitted to make his statement. He said he had driven up to the town, hitched his horse, gone out, got into his buggy and driven away. But since meanwhile his horse had changed from black to white his story did not impress people who had heard much more probable stories from horse stealers. His counsel was stumbling along with a cock and a bull story so it was considered of a real horse thief having taken the prisoner's good black horse and substituted a poor white one when Kate McClennon took a hand in the proceedings.

"What do you roosters mean anyway? I know this here gentleman and have known him since he was a kid. Him and me used to play together in his mother's yard back in Missouri."

Professor Driesbach opened his eyes. "When he was six years old," continued his advocate, "he had a fit. After that he kept having fits. Then he began to steal things. Mother couldn't keep anything in the cupboard but he'd come in and steal it. And I couldn't save any pennies because he'd get 'em in spite of all I could do to hide 'em. Do you s'pose I told on him and got him licked? Not much. What'd I want to get a kid that had fits and scarlet fever and spinal meningitis into trouble for?"

The professor held his breath in amazement. "And how could any one handicapped this way as a boy expect to make a man of himself? Of course he's a horse thief, and any one of you who'd had chicken pox and measles and mumps and fits when you was a boy would make a horse thief yourselves when you grew up. This here prisoner throws himself on the mercy of the court."

Before the plea was half finished the minds of the jurymen were made up, and Professor Driesbach was acquitted without their leaving the boards on which they sat.

After the verdict the court, the acquitted man, his attorneys and the spectators went outside and were about to disperse when a couple of mounted men were seen driving a man on a black horse before them at the points of their revolvers. They came up and stopped before the crowd. "Good gracious," exclaimed the professor, "that's my horse!" Then to the man on his back, "Where did you find him?"

"Find him?" growled one of his guards. "He took him."

"I'd been watchin'," said the thief, "an' when you drew up to the tavern I took a white horse standin' near an' put him in place of yourn. I knowed you was weak in the upper story an' I'd gain time."

A rope was brought for the horse thief, but the professor begged for the prisoner's life, and it was granted on condition that he leave the country.

Mrs. Professor Driesbach is now a well educated woman.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

About Doubles.

King Edward is said to have his "double" in a private citizen who closely resembles him, as has the Prince of Wales. As for the latter, it would be very difficult in the "dusk with a light behind them" to distinguish between the British heir-apparent and his cousin, Nicholas II., as far as personal appearance goes. There was also once a man who prided himself on his startling resemblance to the Duke of Wellington, and his name was Jones. (At last he succeeded in getting introduced to the Iron Duke and remarked upon the singularity of the fact that he had been frequently mistaken for him. "Dear me," said the Duke, "that is very curious, for I don't think I have ever been mistaken for Mr. Jones."

"On what ground," asked the lawyer, "does your wife want a divorce? Incompatibility?"

"Something of that sort, I reckon," answered the man. "My income isn't compatible with her ideas of comfort."—Chicago Tribune.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.

New York Medical Authorities Claim Dyspepsia Causes Consumption.

The post mortem statistics of the big New York hospitals show that some cases of consumption are due to unchecked dyspepsia, especially when the victim was predisposed to tuberculosis.

Dyspepsia wears out the body and brain, the weakened, irritable stomach is unable to digest food, the body does not receive the required nourishment, constipation ensues and the victim becomes thin, weak and haggard. As a result, the body becomes a fertile field for the germs of disease to lodge and flourish.

Therefore, the person who permits dyspepsia to progress unhindered is guilty of contributing toward the development of one of the most insidious and fatal diseases known to mankind.

Dyspepsia is curable if properly treated. W. B. McPherson sells a remedy which he positively guarantees will cure indigestion or dyspepsia or he will pay for all the medicine used during the trial. This remedy is an absolutely new medical discovery and has been named Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Certainly no other could be more fair, and the offer of W. B. McPherson is proof positive that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a dependable and infallible remedy. Inasmuch as the medicine will cost you nothing if it does not benefit you we urge you who are suffering with indigestion or dyspepsia to try this remedy.

A twenty-five cent box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets contains enough medicine for fifteen days' treatment. Remember Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are only sold by W. B. McPherson, Paducah.

YOUTHS' REVENGE ON VACANT HOUSE

Set Fire to it Because They Are Driven Out.

Residence at 1148 Broadway Evidently Fired By Incendiary Saturday Night.

FIVE HORSES SUSTAIN FALL.

Two fires, which broke out only a few hours apart Saturday night and early Sunday morning, badly damaged the two-story dwelling residence, 1148 Broadway, which is owned by Judge James Campbell. Both fires are of suspected incendiary origin, and so strong is the belief of Fire Chief Wood that doubtless there will be an investigation. The strongest proof is the finding of a candle stand holding a candle, and then wrapped in a cloth soaked in coal oil, and placed in a closet. Both times the fire had gained a good hold, and the firemen had to work several hours to down the flames.

The first alarm was received by telephone about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, and when fire companies Nos. 3 and 4 reached the building the fire had eaten its way between the walls, which consist of an outer layer of brick and an inner lining of light wood. It was evident that the fires had been started in several places, but the blaze under the steps in the hall had gained the most headway, and the fire was burning on the second floor and attic.

The firemen quickly had lines of hose on the fire, and with their usual ability downed the fire in spite of the smoke. The real fire was extinguished in half an hour, but about two hours were spent at the fire, as axes had to be used in chopping holes in the wall so that the last sparks could be extinguished. The building was carefully examined and there was no fire in the east side of the house.

Another Fire.
About 2 o'clock Sunday morning the fire had burst out again and companies Nos. 3 and 4 responded to a second alarm. The flames were shooting out the rear windows, and the fire had a good hold on the east side of the building. The storage rooms for grain of the F. L. Gardner Coal company adjoined, and the firemen had to work quickly to prevent the flames from catching it and spreading to the large warehouse.

In the second fire the blaze was burning well, but the firemen waded in and soon had the fire out. Although the building was water soaked and torn and chipped up, the damage will not amount to over $600. The most valuable evidence of the incendiary origin of the fire was the discovery of the candle holder. Fireman Bob Bonnin opened a closet door and kicked out a pile of rags. In the midst of it was found a brass candle holder, which had a candle that had been lighted and then wrapped up in a cloth which had a strong odor of coal oil. Inside the closet on a close examination Chief Wood and the firemen found where a hole had been chopped in the wall to give the blaze a chance to burn in between the walls. The candle holder and rags were confiscated by the firemen.

The house has been occupied as a boarding house for many years, but had been vacant for about two weeks. The house is an ill-fated one for fires as in the last four years five fires have damaged it more or less.

Fire Horses Fall.
While answering a second alarm at the fire the hose company of the Central station had an accident due to the fire horses falling. When in front of the skating rink, Tenth street and Broadway, "Gus" tripped and fell, but quickly regained his feet. In a minute he tripped again and "Plow Handles" fell also. Driver Harry Rudolph and Captain Joe Collins applied the breaks and prevented the heavy wagon from killing the horses, although they were bruised from being dragged several feet. None of the firemen were hurt by the sudden stop of the wagon. After the accident the firemen returned to the station and Dr. E. D. Farley, the veterinarian, was called.

Judge James Campbell, the owner of the dwelling, attributes the origin of the fire to boys who have been chased from the house several times since it has been vacant.

Nobody Spared.

Kidney Troubles Attack Paducah Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quickly with little warning. Children suffer in their early years. Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women work, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man, woman or child, is to cure the cause—the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Cure all forms of kidney suffering. Paducah testimony proves it.

John Stanley, farmer, living six miles south of Paducah, Ky., says: "My boy, aged 12 years, was a sufferer from weak kidneys for a number of years. He did not have any control over the kidney secretions and this caused us much annoyance especially at night. He complained of his back aching him and last summer his general health became run down. We had a doctor from Louisville treat him, but one week he would be better and the next worse. I had often read of Doan's Kidney Pills so decided to give them a trial, and procured a supply at DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store. The boy took them as directed and at the end of the first week he could control the secretions and the annoyance at night, which had caused me so much work, was removed. We continued to have him take Doan's Kidney Pills for three months when they made a complete cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FIVE HORSES

ARE CRIPPLED OR JUST CONVALESCING.

Pneumonia, Bad Falls and Bad Corn Place Them on "Sick in Quarters" List.

The fire stations are more "like hospitals" than fire stations at present, as five of the big prancing fire horses are more or less on the sick list. The bad luck arrived in a big bundle for the fire department, but with the extra horses the department is handicapped but little, and the fire ladders are ready for any blaze.

"Blue Boy," of the Central station, is recovering from pneumonia, which was due to a cold taken during the numerous runs Christmas week. In a few days the fine horse will be in good condition again. Next was the illness of "Dave," one of the grays hitched to the reel at the No. 4 station. While answering a false alarm the horse was taken ill, and the firemen had to work several hours with him, but he is in harness again and able to answer alarms.

To add to the list there were three other horses Saturday night. "Mack," the pet horse of Chief Wood, took ill suddenly Saturday night. It was due to eating bad corn, but after several hours' work the horse was relieved of extreme suffering, although "Mack" is still in the hospital stall. The same night while answering an alarm, "Plow Handles" and "Gus," the horses to the hose wagon, slipped on the smooth bitulithic street and were skinned and bruised. The horses were still sore today, but with good treatment will soon be all right. While injured the horses will be used only in a case of emergency.

How is Your Digestion.

Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 8th Ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market today." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c at all druggists.

A Fish Telephone.

The movement of water made by fish in swimming is sufficient to operate a telephone, and so communicate their approach to fishermen. A Norwegian inventor, says the London Times, has devised a microphone, enclosed in a water-tight box, which may be immersed in the sea and is connected by wires with the fishing boat. According to "L'Electicien," the approach of a shoal of fish can be detected with certainty, and each kind of fish makes a distinctive sound in its motion through the water. Experienced fishermen can in the ordinary way detect the presence of herring and mackerel long before they reach the fishing vessels, but where the more subtle movements of the fit fish are concerned it is possible that the microphone may prove a useful indicator of their whereabouts.—New York Tribune.

"What kind of art is this? Whoever saw a green cow?"
"That's all right. There ought to be cows of that color if there are none."
"What for?"
"Just to match the city farmer."

Don't worry about your looks. You will always look good to your friends.—Chicago News.

PEOPLE BECOME USED TO QUAKES

Constantly Recurring in Messina—Conditions.

Stringent Measures Adopted by Commander of Troops—Issues Order That Persons Caught Excavating

WITHOUT PERMIT BE SHOT.

Messina, Jan. 11.—Balmey weather has prevailed for the past two or three days at this place, making it more comfortable for the troops and survivors of the earthquake. Occasionally there are earth shocks, but the people have grown accustomed to them. Two severe shocks were felt Friday.

General Massey has adopted stringent measures in order to protect the people and property. In addition to establishing a police service, he has issued orders that persons found excavating without a permit shall be shot.

Improved Sanitation.
Sanitary conditions have been greatly improved and it is now believed there is little danger of the spread of disease.

The American relief ship Bayern, flying the red cross flag, has arrived here. A small amount of clothing was sent to the American consulate and the remainder of the stores are being distributed to various ports along the south coast.

The United States supply ship Calgoa, which arrived here from Port Said, on Friday, carried 130 tons of provisions and necessities for the sufferers.

Pope Is Grateful.

Rome, Jan. 11.—Pope Pius received Archbishop Ireland in private farewell audience. The Pope expressed to the archbishop his gratitude to the American people for the part they are taking in giving aid to the earthquake sufferers.

Ships Reach Naples.

Naples, Jan. 11.—The United States battleships Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota and Vermont, under Rear Admiral Sperry, commander of the Atlantic fleet, arrived at dawn, anchoring between the Italian battleships.

Messina, Jan. 11.—Mgr. d'Arrigo, the archbishop of Messina, who continues to inhabit his palace, at which many seminarists, who were wounded in the earthquake are being treated, yesterday visited a number of the ambulances in the city. First, however, he went with the Deuge of Genoa to pay his respects to General Mazza. Temporary altars have been erected where mass is celebrated in the open air.

Signore Michele has organized an information bureau, and is placed in charge of the bureau, which issues permits to carry out the excavations in the ruins.

A printing office with military composers, has been organized, in which the proclamations of the commander-in-chief are set up. Signor Michele also intends publishing a daily bulletin, giving the news of the city as long as the present condition of affairs exists.

The American relief ship, the Bayern, under charge of Captain Belknap, the American naval attaché at Rome, with Ambassador Griscom on board, arrived here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. On account of the Bayern's deep draught she could not enter the port, but lay two kilometers out of the town.

The ruined city is still burning and covered by a heavy cloud of smoke. Near the Bayern are the American supply ship and the gunboat Scorpion.

As soon as the Bayern arrived the commanders of both these ships came on board, accompanied by the military attaché of the American embassy, Major Landis.

The Italian warships here are the Regina Margherita and Regenia Elena, and the Sicilia is on her way here.

During the voyage from Naples the Bayern was transformed into a hospital ship. A smoking room has been made into an operating room. She is flying the Italian Red Cross flag. Mr. Griscom landed at 8 o'clock and conferred with General Mazza, in command of Messina.

Unnecessary Noises.

The celebrated soprano was in the middle of her solo when little Johnny said to his mother, referring to the conductor of the orchestra, "Why does that man hit at the woman with his stick?"
"He is not hitting at her," replied his mother. "Keep quiet."
"Well, then, what is she hollerin' so for?"—Success.

BASKETBALL

LEAGUE WILL BE LAUNCHED NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT.

Eagles' Gym Will Be Scene of First Scrimmage for the City Championship.

Next Tuesday night the city basketball league will open the winter season at the Eagles' gymnasium. On the first night's program will be a double header, as two teams will be pitted against each other, and some lively fun is expected, as all of the teams want to start in the percentage column with a clean record.

No ringers will be permitted to be used as the season advances, and the manager of each team has handed in a list of his players, and no other player will be allowed to compete on a team unless his name has been presented to the directors and approved. With good clean indoor sport for the winter months it is believed that the league will be a success.

"Bidding His Last Goodby."

MEGAPHONE FARMERS.
That There Has Been a Picnic and That They're Genuine Plutocrats.

The farmer evidently knew of the panic last year only from the newspapers. He alone of all the producing class had no experience of a contracted demand and lessened profits, but, on the contrary, enjoyed the most prosperous year in his history, making $290,000,000 more than in 1907, his most prosperous previous year, and reaching the enormous grand total of $7,778,000,000 for all his products.

The prosperity of the farms has been steady, the value of farm products rising without interruption from year to year. Secretary Wilson's report shows that, taking the value of the farm products in 1899 as 100, the advance has proceeded thus: 1903, 125; 1904, 131; 1905, 134; 1906, 143; 1907, 159; 1908, 165, a gain of 65 per cent in nine years.

It has not been affected by general business conditions, but has expanded steadily without regard to the slight business contraction of 1903-04, of the severe business disturbance of 1907-08. Farming has apparently reached a condition of stability which it did not have in the days when the gradual opening of the west constantly brought the products of newer and more fertile areas into competition with those of older and less fertile areas—to use the economist's phrase, constantly reducing what had been "rent lands" to the position of "no rent lands." That process is over and the tendency is in the opposite direction, which is doubtless the explanation of the present movement "back to the land."—New York Tribune.

The Great City.

INBOUND.

It is, ah, such a world-wide London, And the king such a great high king,
When you're steaming in from ocean, Where the city's fingers cling,
Till it seems in wanton grasping They will soon grasp the ocean, too,
And you think of the town's arms clasping All the sea like a maid in blue.

OUTBOUND.

It is only a little London, And the king is a little king,
When you're steaming out to ocean, And the great, gray, crawling thing Seems to rise up straight and blind you, Like the wall of the world, so vast
That the town men have made behind you Is a dot in the far-off past.

—Success.

MITCHELL HARDY STOLE MONEY AT BROOKPORT.

Was Blowing Himself on Shooting Galleries and Nickle Shows on Market Street in St. Louis.

The generous manner in which 11-year-old Mitchell Hardy, son of the superintendent of a lumber company of Brookport, Ill., handled a large roll of bills in a shooting gallery opposite Union station in St. Louis resulted in his arrest and subsequent confession to having robbed the office of the Brookport Milling company. It was afterwards learned that he had left a trail of coins at the numerous Market street amusement places.

Patrolman J. P. Dunn, of central district, was standing outside of the gallery watching the boy shoot at one of the smallest targets. The excellent aim of the youthful marksman caused the policeman to enter the gallery. Mitchell had just emptied the rifle, and with an air of bravado he pulled a roll of bills out of his pocket.

"How much does that come to?" he inquired of the proprietor.

"Forty cents," was the reply.

"Just keep the change," the boy said as he threw a dollar bill on the counter.

Breaks Down When Questioned.

Dunn questioned the boy after his display of generosity, and a few minutes later Mitchell broke down and began to cry. He told of being sent to the office of the milling company to sell some sacks. Money and checks amounting to over $200 were lying on the desk and there was no one in the office.

"Once a boy who lives near us told me about all the fun he had in St. Louis, so I just took the money and thought I'd see if he was telling the truth," the boy said. He had checks for $162 and $50 in cash when arrested.

ORATORS

PADUCAH HIGH YOUTHS ARE PREPARING FOR CONTEST.

Winner Will Represent School Against Best Speakers of Western Kentucky High Schools.

Preparations have been begun for the primary oratorical contest to select the orator to represent the High school at the Inter-High school oratorical contest, which will be held at Madisonville February 19. Already three students, Edward Mitchell, Marvin Sills and Frank Luftenburg have announced their intention to compete for the honor, but it is certain that there will be more candidates. Mr.

Mitchell represented High school last year, and made such a good impression that many in the audience thought the judges made a mistake in awarding the medal to Madisonville.

The league this year is better than last year, as Paducah, Henderson, Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Madisonville and Pembroke High schools will have representatives. Prof. W. A. Evans, of the High school, is the promoter of the league, and practically organized the league.

The date for the primary contest has not been set definitely, but it will be about January 16.

River stage at 7 o'clock this morning 9.5, a rise of 0.5 since yesterday morning and a rise of one foot since Saturday morning. River men are expecting a stage of 12 feet at Paducah during this rise. Water is in the Ohio and Tennessee rivers and the cold weather can't keep it from coming down. The cold weather, with the little rain that fell last night, has made the levee a glare of ice and it is almost impossible for a horse and wagon to go from First street to the wharfbat. Not a wagon load of freight was hauled down the levee this morning until after 5 o'clock. All drivers had their horses rough-shod before venturing down the icy slope. No wagons with freight greeted the Dick Fowler this morning and freight for the other boats was late in arriving at the wharfbat. A lot of freight was taken down to the wharfbat on wheelbarrows and carried down by men.

The steamer Dick Fowler cleared on time this morning for Cairo and all way landings with a number of passengers and a light freight cargo. She will return tonight at 8 o'clock.

The steamer J. B. Richardson arrived from Nashville and way landings yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and got away today at 12 o'clock for Clarksville with a number of passengers and a fair cargo of freight. She will return tomorrow night and leave at noon Wednesday for Nashville.

The Joe Fowler arrived in port last night at 10 o'clock from Evansville and all way landings and left on a return trip at 11 o'clock this morning. The Joe is doing a large freight business and carrying a lot of stock into Evansville.

The John S. Hopkins will be the Evansville packet tomorrow morning. The Royal made her regular trip today from Golconda here and return with a good business both ways.

The George Cowling was in port twice today from Metropolis doing a fair business both ways.

The Clyde will be due late this afternoon or early tonight from Waterloo, Ala., and all way landings. She will go on to Metropolis to unload and return here tomorrow evening.

The Henry Harley will leave Nashville tomorrow for Paducah and way landings. She will leave on a return trip Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

The T. H. Davis came in port yesterday afternoon with a tow of empty barges and returned this morning.

The Nellie went up the Tennessee yesterday morning with a derrick boat and two barges to load logs.

The Blue Spot came in port yesterday from the Tennessee with several barges of ties for Joppa.

The George Gardner came in port last night from Cairo and tied up in the Tennessee. She will go on to Rosi Clair after a tow of stone.

The Charles Turner arrived from Rosi Clair yesterday with two barges of stone and is tied up in the Paducah wharfbat. The stone will be taken on to Cairo.

The Chancey Lamb will be due in port tomorrow afternoon from the Cumberland with 30,000 ties for the T. J. Moss Tie company at Joppa.

The Margaret will be due in the middle of the week from the Tennessee with several barges of ties for the Ayer & Lord Tie company.

The two government boats, R. C. McCalla and Tom Higby, and two barges that were stranded up the Ohio are in port and are now at the marine ways for repairs. The two boats are bound for the Mississippi river to pull snags. The boats were last recently built at the ways at Jeffersonville, Ind.

OBIE WHEELER

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS OF STOMACH TROUBLE.

Well Known Clerk for St. Bernard Coal Company--Funeral Will Be Wednesday.

Mr. Obie Wheeler, 23 years old, died this morning at 7:55 o'clock at his home, 1122 North Thirteenth street, after a long illness of stomach trouble. Mr. Wheeler was born and reared at Dehring Springs, Mich., and had been a resident of this city for six years. For five years he has been clerk for the St. Bernard Coal company, at Eleventh and Jefferson streets, and he was a popular young man. Mr. Wheeler has been ill for one year with stomach trouble and was compelled to go to bed three months ago. His death was not a surprise to the family, for the young man had gradually grown worse from the first day of his illness. He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. Wheeler, two sisters, Miss Birdie and Clara Wheeler, all of this city, and one brother, Dr. S. E. Wheeler, of Ramsey, Ill.

The funeral will be held Wednesday but the exact time will not be known until word is received from out-of-town relatives.

Not Needed.

Frank Lincoln, who used to be well known in Chicago as an entertainer and humorist, had been appearing in London for a time in a monologue. One afternoon he had just made his bow and was about to begin when a cat walked in and sat down on the stage.

"You get out!" said Mr. Lincoln, severely. "This is a monologue, not a catalogue!"—Success Magazine.

A little change may be a good thing, but a big roll of bills is better.

For Highest Cash Market Price Bring Your

TOBACCO

TO

Bohmer's Warehouse

9th & Harrison, Paducah, Ky. Old Phone 72

Empty hogsheds furnished free to parties wishing to ship their tobacco by rail or river

Tobacco is unloaded in large, flat baskets, each grade to itself, weighed and receipt given owner, showing number of draft and pounds thereof. A corresponding ticket is placed on each pile. The highest bid is written on ticket and, should owner accept same, by presenting at office receipt previously given, the cash is handed over.

Should the bid offered not be satisfactory, the tobacco can be offered the next day or at any other time thereafter.

It costs absolutely nothing to offer your tobacco unless bid is accepted, in which case we charge 15 cents per hundred pounds and 2 cents on the dollar.

The greatest demand among manufacturers and dealers is for loose tobacco and, since it will bring more money offered loose, why go to the expense of having prized, stored, insured, inspected and looked after?

You will get more money for your tobacco when offered to the highest bidder in open competition with twenty-five buyers trying to buy than when you expect or require one buyer to buy millions of pounds without competition at a round price.
